

YOUTH ORCHESTRA PROGRAM:

The Cape Symphony Youth Orchestra (CSYO) Program is a year-round program that consists of two ensembles: CSYO and Repertory Winds, Strings, & Percussion. Members of both groups will learn to rehearse and perform like the Cape Symphony, exploring the beauty and intricacy of history's greatest compositions while continuing to grow their musicianship and technical ability. We welcome all young musicians who play orchestral instruments (*see list on p. 2) from ages 12 to 21 (generally) to enroll and audition for placement in one of the two ensembles offered.

It is our mission to inspire joy and we achieve that goal by sharing our love for music performance and education with the next generation of Cape Cod musicians.

CSYO PROGRAM ENSEMBLES

Repertory Winds, Strings, & Percussion (REP.)

This ensemble serves as the training ground for students who aspire to play in the Cape Symphony Youth Orchestra but need a bit more experience. REP. is a modular group that will allow winds, brass, strings, and percussion to break off into smaller chamber ensembles (pending on available instrumentation) as well as combine together as a chamber ensemble. The rehearsals are slightly shorter (1hr) than CSYO and will focus on building musicianship and technique to prepare members for the challenge of playing more advanced repertoire in the future.

Cape Symphony Youth Orchestra (CSYO)

An advanced ensemble geared toward high school and college students. In this ensemble, members will rehearse together as a full symphony orchestra and prepare repertoire that a professional orchestra would perform. Our conductor, Mark Miller, has more than 30 years of experience working with talented youth orchestra musicians and is motivated to grow CSYO into an ensemble that inspires and trains the next generation of Cape Symphony musicians.

FACULTY

CSYO faculty include professional chamber, orchestra, and solo musicians who have decades of performance and teaching experience. Our instructors will guide students in sectionals and provide support in rehearsals, often playing side-by-side with students while they learn to navigate the technical challenges of orchestral playing. Cape Symphony (CS) educational programs are uniquely equipped to provide a valuable and memorable experience for all participating students, in that many CS musicians serve on faculty and provide workshops and masterclasses to inspire the next generation of musicians on Cape Cod.

PLACEMENT AUDITIONS FOR 2022|23 SEASON:

*Current CSYO members (2021|22 season) will need to re-audition for the 2022|23 Season for placement within the ensemble (ex. concertmaster, 1st/2nd violin, principal parts). These auditions will take place live, after in May/June 2022 and again in early September of 2022, alongside auditions for new members. Please check our website for updates or contact kspraker@capesymphony.org

All instruments should prepare a solo or musical selection that best demonstrates their technique and musicianship, two scales (one sharp key, one flat key), and chromatic scale that demonstrates comfortable range on instrument. Total audition time should not exceed 10min.

MASTERCLASSES

Members of the CSYO Program will have priority to perform in these special events that give young musicians the opportunity to perform for Cape Symphony members and guest artists. The experience one receives performing in a masterclass can inspire incredible growth and often creates a greater sense of community within various instrument families of the orchestra.
